

Connected Care Begins with Communication & Collaboration

Care coordination and management is essential to improving the lives of people across the country. It can be especially critical for families, children and seniors with complex medical conditions and special healthcare needs. Ongoing care management often involves multiple providers and specialists who offer insight into a patient's case, but those providers are not always connected in a way that facilitates optimal sharing of patient information.

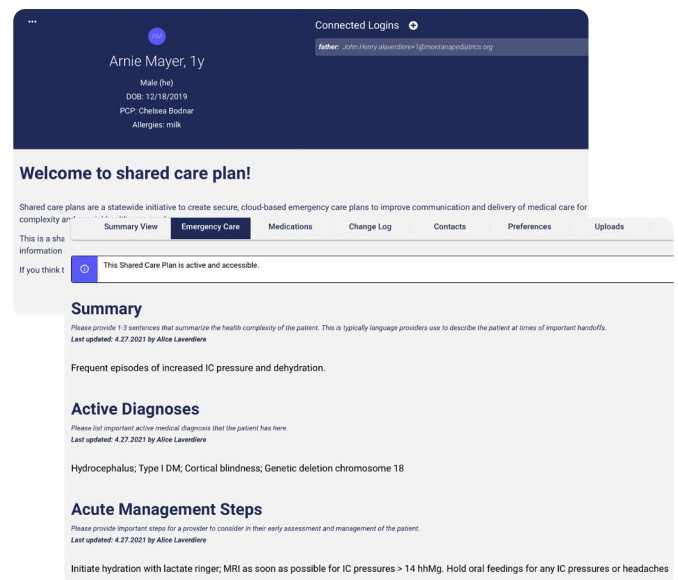

Imagine all the documents and communication exchanged among patients and providers when coordinating care for patients with complex conditions. Now, imagine a single, unified solution that not only helps providers manage patient care documentation, but also enables patients to have immediate access to the providers they need, when they need them, from wherever they may be – that is the Refyne Connected Care platform™.

Refyne Connected Care, part of Vyne Medical's Refyne platform, helps providers build effective and sustainable patient care programs.
